THE PARISH REGISTER OF
SYSTON OR SISTON

THE PARISH REGISTER OF
ST. JOHN'S

PREFACE

WHEN the Bristol and Gloucestershire Archæological Society held its summer meeting in 1900, in the neighbourhood of Bath and Bristol, the parish church of Saint Anne of Syston was visited amongst other places of interest, and there was exhibited by the Rector a highly interesting parish register, dating from the relatively early year 1576. As the volume had suffered greatly from damp and other deterioration, it was deemed desirable that an authentic transcript should be made, which, by the kind permission of the Rector of Syston, is now presented to the reader.

The register, which has been kept with great regularity and precision, extends from the xviiith of Elizabeth to within a few months of the battle of Edghill (1576-1641). The volume measures 11 in. \times 6½ in. and contains 31 leaves many of which are injured by damp. The first three and the last two leaves are badly perished and perforated through lack of boards or other binding. The present copy has been made not only verbatim et literatim but also page for page and line for line—no word has been omitted. The text has been compared with the Bishop's transcripts at the Gloucester Diocesan Registry, but the latter are in a very imperfect condition—indeed they are altogether missing from 1579 to 1595, and again from 1598 to 1606.

Various loose sheets in the parish chest of Syston are transcribed at pp. 70-73. These are a most interesting Inventory of Goods, etc. belonging to the parish church in the sixth year of King Edward VI., being the year 1553—Memoranda respecting the payment of tythe in kind, 1577—and the names of the preachers in the church during the incumbency of Jonathan Luffingham (1687-1724), which is of value as indicating the Incumbents of many neighbouring parishes at that period. A list of the Rectors of Syston from 1580 to 1812 is added at p. 71.

Some slight attempt has been made to illustrate the record by means of notes, but it should be borne in mind that these do not profess to embody the result of any exhaustive investigation of the history of the parish. They consist simply of such facts as access to a good library and a very general acquaintance with the subject have enabled the editor to put together.

The Dennis family, which is said to have built the mansion of Syston Court does not figure very prominently in this record. Richard Dennis of Syston was son of Sir Walter Dennis of Dyrham. Fosbrooke tells us that the manor was sold by the heirs of Morris Dennis to Henry Billingsley, which would be about the year 1605; and accordingly we find the baptisms of several children of Henry Billingsley and Sara his wife, between the years 1620 and 1631. Rudder is therefore wrong in saying that the Dennises built Syston House in the reign of Charles I. If built by that family, as appears probable from the shields of arms carved upon the wings of the mansion, it is evident that the house is at least thirty years older than Charles I.'s time—say about the middle of Queen Elizabeth's reign, as might be supposed from the style of architecture. Henry Billingsley before mentioned is said to have entertained Queen Anne of Denmark at Syston on the occasion of her visit to Bristol in 1614. By him the property was sold in the year 1637 to Lionel, Earl of Middlesex, who again conveyed it in 1650 to Patrick Cary. In the following year, namely 1651, Samuel Trotman became the purchaser, in the possession of whose descendants the manor has remained until the present day.

The Stranges of Moonscourt or Mound's Court, whose name is frequently mentioned in the register descend from Robert Strange of the City of Bristow, who was third son of Strange of Cirencester, Mayor of Cirencester. Robert's son Walter is the first Strange designed of Moonescourte where the family was seated for many generations. A somewhat extensive pedigree is given in the Herald's Visitation of Gloucestershire, 1623. Although now a farm house, Mound's Court is rendered famous historically by the fact that Queen Katherine Par, dowager Henry VIII. had her residence here for seven or eight days, after visiting Bath and Bristol.

It may be well to mention that the second volume of The parish registers of Syston embraces the period 1641-1751, and the third volume 1751-1812. Both of these have parchment leaves and are in good condition, easily legible.

H. B. M'CALL.

The church of Syston, which is dedicated to Saint Anne, mother of the B. V. Mary, consists of a small Norman Nave without aisles, an Early English chancel, and a western Tower. On the south side is a twelfth century doorway with a finely sculptured tympanum. The church contains a leaden font, considered to be of Norman design, and three chained books. The latter are not, however, of any special antiquity.
